GRAVESEND RACE TRACE. Sept. 12.-The pening day of the Fall meeting of the Brooklyn Jocacy Club was not a very brilliant affair. The attendance was very slim and the programme be ore the first race was run was cut all to pieces. The events were reduced to nelds of miserable proportions and the outlook was not pleasant. Horsemen and bookmakers grumbled audibly, while the crowd was not any too well pleased.

Board of Control Issue a Nonsensical Manifesto.

The Old Time race, notwithstanding there were only three contestants, furnished an interesting event. All three of the starters were suity brutes, but possessed of un-doubted speed and gameness if they would only take it into their heads to run. Most people fondly imagined that Ten Tray would sulk during the first mile, but that he would get over it then and run kindly during the rest of the journey and win easily. On the strength of this opinion they made him favorite over Demuth and The Sheriff The latter acted as whipper-in. Demuth was strongly backed. The race was uneventful for three titles. Tea Tray did not solk, as every one imagined he would. Instead he acted as though he could race over the top of the moon, and Hamilton had to exert all his strength to keep the old regue behind Demuth, who was making the tunning. Beginning the fourth mile, however, an amusing thing happened. Demuth made up his mind that he had run far enough, and he a flash and in half a furiong had gained a four lengths' lead. No sooner was old Tea Tray in tront though than he, too, sulked and refused to run. Narvice had bustled Demuth, and the latter again passed Tea Tray, leading by three lengths at the far turn. Tea Tray then got over his fit and started to catch Demuth, but was unable to a curious race, and the growd, knowing the peculiarities of the two animals, enjoyed every foot of the race. The Sheriff was beaten a furlong. Young Covington, who rode him, thought it was a huge joke, and his grin at the finish was very tunny.

The Mayflower Handicap was a disappointing race it was run in 2-27, just about five scouds slower than it should have been travelled in. Lizzie cut out the pair, and a very slow one for a full.
